- They should then deliver information about the NGO deemed most appropriate to the Global Communications Directorate, including the rationale behind the cooperation, budget information, the collaboration scope and the approval email formation of the Level D manager to which it/he/she reports.
- The Global Communications Directorate evaluates the request in accordance with the Corporate Citizenship Policy and examines the civil society organization thoroughly.
- If it deems the collaboration appropriate, the Global Communications Directorate requests the opinion of Koç Holding for the cooperation.
- If the opinion is positive, the Directorate will respond positively to the relevant unit by defining the scope of the cooperation.
- The relevant unit will manage all documents and processes, such as budgets, product support, services and contracts to be provided to the NGO. Prior to the payment, the department to cooperate with the NGO is responsible for notifying and approving the Level-C manager to which it reports.
- All matters such as the rights and obligations of the parties involved under the scope of the cooperation, logo usage, content sharing and project design must be shared with the Global Communications Directorate before contacting and taking action with the NGO and the cooperation details must be agreed to. The cooperating department is responsible for this process.
- Upon receiving the request for cooperation, the Global Communications Directorate shall respond to the relevant person or unit at any stage of the process if it deems the collaboration negative.
- The Global Communications Directorate's decision is binding.
- If a donation is made to the NGO in return for cooperation, the necessary donation procedure must be followed within the framework of Arçelik's Global Donation and Sponsorship Policy. An approval for cooperation does not mean an automatic approval for donation.
